

Ancient History General

Year 11 Course Code	GEHIA
Year 12 Course Code	GTHIA Not available in 2018
Highly recommended	C grade or higher in Year 10 Society and Environment and English
Cost	To be determined

Year 11 and Year 12 Course Overview

The Ancient History General course enables students to study life in early civilisations, based on the interpretation of the physical and written remains of different ancient societies. The study of ancient civilisations illustrates the development of distinctive features of contemporary societies; for example, social organisation and religion. The course also explores the possible motivations and actions of individuals, and how they shaped the political, social and cultural landscapes of the ancient world. Students are introduced to the process of reconstructing the past using often fragmentary evidence from a range of written and archaeological sources, and the skills associated with the analysis of historical sources.

The Year 11 Course Structure

Unit 1 – This unit enables students to investigate life in early civilisations, including the social, cultural, political, economic, religious, and military structures, and the significant values, beliefs, and traditions that existed. They discover how the world and its people have changed, as well as the significant legacies that exist into the present.

Unit 2 – In this unit, students learn that in ancient societies key individuals have acted as agents of change, interacting with groups and institutions, and using their power to shape their society. They investigate key individuals' motives, the methods they used to achieve power, the ways they used their power, the responses of others to their use of power, and their impact and influence on society.

Year 12 Course is not available in 2018